Edmonton Buys 39 Per Cent, of 5th Loan Quota

Edmontonians purchased 1,272 bonds worth $440,000 on Monday to bring the total for the Victory Loan campaign to $3,663,200, representing 39 per cent of the $9,380,000 quota. Total number of individual subscriptions in the seven days was 5,823.

For the first seven days in the fourth loan campaign, sales were up $4,237,900, from 1,000 purchases. A large government purchase of $1,000,000 was made during the first week of the fourth loan drive. However, Alberta total for the first seven days is $14,225,550, or 38.5 per cent of the $37,500,000 Monday amount.

Pavillion savings division of the campaign has set a record for the first day of the fifth loan drive that makes efforts for the same period in the fourth loan campaign pretty tame indeed by comparison.

Edmonton Sailor Says:

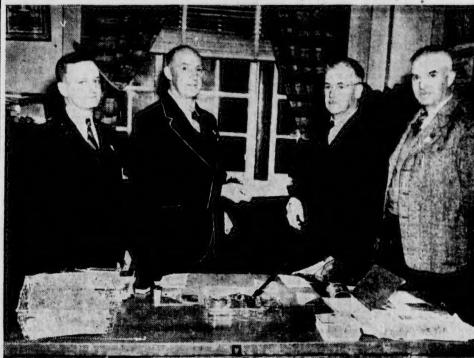

Dante's Inferno No More Violent Than Scenes at Sicilian Landings

EDMONTON, Oct. 26—Dante's Inferno and Hitler's nothing on the scenes around Catania during the days the Allied troops were storming the Sicilian stronghold, according to Sub-Lieutenant R. L. "Dicky" Gordon, R.C.N., V.R., of Edmonton, Alberta, who has just returned to London, after having served in landing craft in the Mediterranean and last November.

Sub-Lieutenant Gordon offers a vivid description of the panorama of destruction as he witnessed it from the deck of a landing craft.

"I don't think Hell could offer anything more violent than the scene presented to us as our armoured assault landed the Catania, and the Nazis and Italians hid up in their fortifications, prior to retreating," said Sub-Lieutenant Gordon. "And to cap it all, acting as a backdrop to the scene, was old Eliza to scrub-minutes. Just as we completed the job and were back at the fort the ship blew up.

TERRIFIC EXPLOSION

The fort was an explosion. The blast blew loads of stuff all over the fort, much of it unexploded shells. These had to be picked up as soon as they were cool enough and thrown them into the sea. There was a great deal of smoke.

A short time after the explosion the fort was hit by enemy bombers and the landing craft crews were moved into the hills and they witnessed the fall of Catania.

Sub-Lieutenant Gordon, arrived from Canada in April of last year. He was assigned to the fortifications and a few months later he was in the Mediterranean. He obtained his first rank of corporal while operating from advanced bases in North Africa, ferrying supplies for the 1st Army. He was to qualify as a bombardier once enough, too damaged then.

At Augusta he was under command of Commander, the Earl David Beatty, son of the famous Admiral Beatty.

LED LANDING CRAFT

Prior to that he had charge of engineers from Sicily, Taranto, Bari and from Malta, operating from the latter place while plans were under way for the invasion of Sicily. He was in charge of the landing craft. His craft experienced little trouble landing at Augusta.

The moment the landing craft arrived and along with the R.A.F. they had soothed the pain, so that it was more or less a plash.

The young officer, from the Sicilians, most friendly. "They were very glad to see us," he declared. "We employed some of them as cooks and one of them, even as a cook in the macaroni making business."

All the repatriates were greeted by dozens of voluntary workers with coffee, tea and sandwiches. They were given free newspapers and magazines before they left by bus and train for hospitals. The Canadians were sent somewhere in the south of England.

GREATES TRIBUTE

Perhaps the greatest tribute came, not from the public, but from the working class men and women from the typical dock quarter where the ships landed. They lined the streets here to cheer the repatriates as they came in.

A message from the King which was read aboard the liners, Drott, Athlone and Empire, was read to the Queen and I bid you a very warm welcome. Through all your trials and sufferings, you have been a true example to us all. We rejoice to think that you are now safely home; even though the actual homecoming was not to the front parts of the Empire. You may be very sure that, while you are here, we will do all we can to help you.

The Germans had lost two cities by storm after forcing the Dnieper to the west and south and making a wide encirclement.

ENORMOUS BODY

Enormous body of guns, tanks and other supplies were captured intact. Dnepropol, whose previous was captured by the Germans, had little more than a ruined shell. Only a few walls remained of the city's 100,000 houses.

A handful of civilians was all that remained to cower the remaining 100,000 Germans who had been housed in Germany for slave labor. A Soviet force of 150,000 men recently there, 100,000 to 150,000,000 Ukrainians were doomed unless the tempest of the Soviet advance can be accelerated markedly.

123 Japanese Planes Smashed at Rabaul

BY DENNIS SCHLEIDER

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, Oct. 26.—(AP)— Allied airmen destroyed 123 Japanese planes Saturday and Sunday in raids on reinforcements at Rabaul, New Britain, bringing the total wiped out there in four recent raids to more than 300.

Bombers, escorted by fighters, struck Rabaul after aerial photographs of planes spotted on the airfield on the island of Vunakanau, Rappo and Tabora.

The first attacks Saturday were by night bombers, followed by day bombers, escorted by long range fighters. Twenty parked aircraft were destroyed and 15 of 50 remaining fighters were shot down.

SCREENED BY FIGHTERS

More bombers, many of which had been shot down, came in again Saturday and Sunday, and destroyed 45 enemy planes on the ground. Sunday, Rabaul was hit again, planes tried to bomb up this attack and 45 were shot down. All told, 100 aircraft were destroyed.

Today's communiqué which announced the new raids said these succeeded in "dealing a heavy blow to Japan's reinforcements which he was attempting to build up from rear areas."

Forty-five other Japanese planes were listed as probably destroyed.

UNDER A BRIGHT SUN

Under a truly sound monetary system we can order our economy as well as our financial system to create the extra money needed.

"But in wartime, as everyone knows, goods are certain to be scarce. Goods, however, are not scarce in the sense of being in short supply. The problem is to increase the production of goods and thus keep prices from rising, and preventing inflation."

ADJUST FINANCES

The monetary side of the nation can be balanced and managed so that through it, directly or indirectly, economic ills could be remedied.

Canada now was forced to trade in a competitive, while at the same time, a more or less autocratic, free to trade in co-operation. Tariff barriers could be reduced and the Canadian dollar could be strengthened with protection of industries and workers by subsidies and protection of consumers by price adjustment.

THIS WAS MY BROTHER
AT DIEPPE,
QUIETLY A HERO
WHO GAVE HIS LIFE
LIKE A GIFT,
WITHHOLDING NOTHING.

HIS YOUTH . . . HIS LOVE . . .
HIS ENJOYMENT OF BEING ALIVE . . .
HIS FUTURE, LIKE A BOOK
WITH HALF THE PAGES STILL UNCUT—

THIS WAS MY BROTHER
AT DIEPPE—
THE ONE WHO BUILT ME A DOLL HOUSE
WHEN I WAS SEVEN,
COMPLETE TO THE LAST SMALL PICTURE FRAME,
NOTHING FORGOTTEN.

HE WAS AWFULLY GOOD AT FIXING THINGS,
AT STEPPING INTO THE BREACH WHEN HE WAS NEEDED.

THAT'S WHAT HE DID AT DIEPPE;
HE WAS NEEDED.
AND EVEN DEATH MUST HAVE BEEN A LITTLE SHAMED
AT HIS EAGERNESS!

—Mona Gould.

The First Week

On Saturday, 107,000 buyers across Canada purchased Victory Bonds, to the amount of $82,000,000. That brought the sales' total to $417,000,000 for the week. This is $17,000,000 more than the weekly average that must be maintained to reach the $1,000,000,000 objective in the three-week campaign period.

The margin over the weekly quota is not spectacular, but it is substantial. If the moral is that the buying pace must be held, the figures also give confidence that the campaign is on the right track. Each goes that in the early days of a campaign buying is done mainly by those who had decided beforehand how many bonds they could purchase, and that the returns from the canvas and the campaign period become automatic. There is reason to hope, therefore, that the returns for the present week will be as satisfactory, or more satisfactory, both in the number of sales made and in the aggregate of subscriptions.

A Guaranteed Market

The new bacon agreement with Britain calls for a higher price but smaller deliveries. Britain is to pay 75 cents per hun-dredweight more, but Canada contracts to ship "only" an average of 1,000,000 pounds per week over the next two years. During the present year the Dominion undertook to supply 675,000,000 pounds, but may fall short of the mark.

There is no suggestion that Britain reduced its order because the higher price was thought to be too dear. On the contrary, the reduction is attributed to a limited feed supply in Canada and doubts that the present scale of production at export standards could be maintained.

But as more hogs are at present being offered for sale, there is a chance they have labor to handle for export purposes, the restrictions on slaughter for consumption in Canada are to be eased for a time at least. Townsfolk will thus be able to buy more pork, a welcome concession with the reduced demand for beef some of the latter will be shipped overseas, which may go some way to make up for the lighter export of bacon and hams.

Since the agreement is to run for two years, the farmers will have the advantage of being able to plan hog production for that period against a guaranteed demand at a set price. That is a highly important consideration. And nothing is said about Britain being unwilling to take more than the 900,000,000 pounds if more is offered.
The inference is rather the other way.

Aluminum Curtailed

The tie-up of an aluminum plant at St. Regis, Ontario, has been a source of spectacle, since Canadian soldiers are fighting their way through mountain defiles in Italy and people all over the Dominion are digging into their pockets and bank accounts and pledging their future earnings to pay for aluminum and other war materials.

Officials place the loss from a two-day suspension of operations at a million and a half dollars, counting the delay and cost entailed by the cooling of the melting pots.
But the most important loss is the loss of the stage of production of the metals without which planes cannot be built and some other kinds of equipment made.

The strike seems to have come like a bolt from the blue, but the men who hated nothing about a tie-up have ended or in prospect. In any case, action which must curtail the supply of so vital a material as aluminum could be justified on no reasonable ground at the present junction, but there is a distinct defiance of the wartime regulations. There may be some cause for the walk-out other than that given in the despatches, which say the men quit as a protest against a return to the winter schedule "which is slightly heavier than the summer."

V

Daring Strategy

The spearhead, Russian troops which crossed the Dnieper south of Kremenchug have penetrated the big bend area to Krivolog, 90 miles west and a little south of the industrial city of Dnepropetrovsk which has fallen. Red forces thrust across the river to the attack.
Away to the south the southern arm of the Red pincers is thrusting west and south beyond Melitopol.

At the other Dnieper and in the Crimea, the Army is estimated to have 500,000 men. The entrapment and destruction of this great force is the Russian objective. Obviously it is a tremendous undertaking, for an army of a half-million men, including Germans, means a lot of beating if they have not lost strength.

The situation is one in which a major disaster could occur to either side. Both jaws of the Russian pincers are open to flank attacks. Bogged down by muddy ground, either would have to fight the enemy in his own country and face its own and previous problems. And unless one arm or the other is halted soon, more crushing defeat than Stalingrad seems certain for the Nazis.

There is nothing to suggest that in launching this gigantic two-pronged drive Moscow overestimated its resources or that it is lacking in either. It set the stage the time, and on both fronts its forces are driving ahead with persistence that bespeaks plenty of equipment and ample reserves crowding up behind the spurts.

The taking of Dnepropetrovsk by storm is further evidence that the Russians have plenty of manpower and "tools." It suggests also that enemy morale is being undermined by the encroaching fronts from the north and the south.
The result will stimulate Red army confidence in its leadership and its striking power as did the successful defence of the key city on the Volga.

As the Russians have the momentum and have kept going so long, the odds are that they will continue to do so. But they looked that they are employing a daring strategy, with fearful consequences if it should fail. It was no push-over that Marshall Stalin assigned to the divisions he sent crashing in behind the Nazis at Dnepropetrovsk, nor to those pushing west from Metelopol.

V

More bad news for Tojo. Secretary Knox announced that carriers are being built in Japan that can take off bombers with wings to be taken off from bases on land. Such news is not usually given out until the work is so far advanced that the enemy can not prepare to meet the new development in advance.

Tokyo may reasonably suspect that some of these carriers are in the Pacific ready to unleash their cargoes of long-distance block-buster toring bombers.

Senator Vandenberg of Michigan thinks.

"This new resolution omits the MacKinlay Conference, which must be among sovereign nations. We are not in a position to do what some of these nations are doing."

A single senator voted to correct
the incredible price of gross and important ignorance.

III-Informed

I should hesitate to believe that Senator Vandenberg went unconsciously into the MacKinlay resolution, but the MacKinlay agreement seems to have been kept out of future peace conferences simply by listing the mem-bering nations, the misapprehension must be widespread.

Certainly no American can understand various weird
and wonderful ideas of the status of the British dominions under
the British Crown.

There is a widespread notion among our American friends and neighbors that Canada, in instance, is directly under the rule of Britain; that the British parliament passes

From the proceedings which have taken place before the Supreme Court in the master of the Manitoba school case it appears that the point in dispute is whether the Canadian Parliament or the Provincial Council, namely, whether or not the Roman Catholics of Manitoba had certain separative rights in the school system. The question is whether the Catholics had the right to be educated in their own language. The answer is that the Canadian Catholics had the right to be educated in their own language.

There is a question about the status of the Canadian dominions under
the British Crown.

There is an agitation afoot to secure the establishment of a Dominion experimental farm in Alberta.

British newspapers support the proposal made in Canada by and Canadians living in London against the Alaska war, and Lord Aberdeen is being subjected to sharp criticism on both sides of the Atlantic.

Dieppe Attack Veterans With Freed Captives

By SYDNEY GRUSON

LETHBRIDGE, Oct. 26.—(CP)—Bearing the scars of Dieppe, a small group of Canadians who had met the French beaches with the British and Americans that fatal morning of Aug. 19, 1942, and were captured returned to Britain yesterday with a message of hope and a reminder to comrades they had left behind in German prison camps.

Five hundred Canadians participated in the Dieppe "reconnaissance in force," greatest amphibious operation of the war up to then, and 1,000 were taken prisoner. These returning Canadians are part of a group being repatriated under an international exchange agreement.

The party arrived in the Empress of Russia and the Swedish liner Drottningholm with thousands of British and Canadian veterans who will arrive today at an eastern British port aboard the hospital ship Queen Elizabeth.

The Canadian soldiers came from every region which went to Dieppe—the Royal Regiment of Canada, the Essex Scottish, the Grenadiers of Canada, the Fusiliers Mont Royal, the South Saskatchewan, the Royal 22nd and the 11th Canadian Army Tank Battalion, Calgary.

With the soldiers was an R.C.A.F. pilot, Lt. W. M. Mackay of Calgary.

Mackay, who was flying the plane in which the force landed, had lost an old friend, Lt. Seth Hallion, a Canadian army press relations officer, on the quay and put the plane into a steep climb to remunerate old times at the University of Alberta.

HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE

QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal sores do not delay treatment. Itching piles and rectal condition become chronic. Any itching or sores around the rectal area or the rectum should be treated at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from Merrick Drug Stores or any drug store in your city.

This formula which is used internally is a strong, safe and effective way to quickly relieve the itching and soreness around the rectal area and the rectum.

Hem-Roid is pleasant to use. It itch-free and it relieves the rectal area.

When a handful of Hem-Roid emerges with Mussolini from the building where the former dictator had been confined, he appeared as a black overcoat, black hat and was unshaven.

The film also showed Mussolini greeted at an airport by Hitler, who seemed to be in the situation a hearty one. A dismal evening failed to rise to the situation, and an over-all feeling of frustration was not dispelled.

Escape Films Show Duce Is "Unhappy" About Whole Thing

By WILLIAM B. KING

ANKARA, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Neutral and Axis diplomats and officials viewed films Sunday night of Benito Mussolini's "escape" from his prison in the Almendro castle. The audience left with a conviction that the Faust-like chief was unhappy about the whole thing.

The German embassy arranged the showing. Members of the audience said the landing of the "rescue planes," which the German propaganda machine had played up as a daring stroke into Allied territory, appeared on the screen as a routine event.

Increased Postage, Tax on Luxuries Proposed in U.S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(AP)—

A sharp increase in postal rates, boosting the charge on first class, out-of-town letters from three to four, and large excises on so-called luxuries—including liquor, cigarettes, candy and pop—were proposed yesterday by the congressional advisory staff on taxation.

Estimated to yield $1,580,000,000 in the revenue, the bill would also place a one-cent tax on bottled soft drinks, and raise the federal gasoline tax from 1 cent to two cents a gallon.

The program also proposes to levy excise against carloads of chewing gum and pari-mutuel wagers.

Members of the audience said the landing of the "rescue planes," which the German propaganda machine had played up as a daring stroke into Allied territory, appeared on the screen as a routine event.

• When peace comes everyone in Canada will share in it.

Yet more than two million gainfully employed Canadians who could buy a Victory bond, have not done so yet.

You, perhaps, belong to the other three million or so who have bought a bond. And you will buy again and again.

You consider these bonds your share in victory.

But have you stopped to ask yourself how much victory $100 will buy?

Have you seen the latest figures on what Canada must spend if we are to shoulder our full share as a free and prosperous nation in the cost of the war?

• Do you know that up to June of this year Canada has spent 4½ billions on war munitions?

Do you know that since the war began Canada has built and launched 230 frigates, corvettes and minesweepers, over 100 patrol ships, and 178 freighters?

Do you know that over half the military vehicles which carried General Montgomery's army to victory in North Africa were made in Canada?

Do you know that the Air Training Plan for the next two years will cost $1,500,000,000, of which Canada will pay half?

Do you know that so far we have spent on industrial expansion and defence construction—in Canada itself—more than a billion dollars?

• These billions add up to Canada's share in victory.

Do you think $100 is your share of the total?

You are paying taxes, yes.

And perhaps you have some bonds already.

But have you bought your share?

Only you, yourself, after you have thought everything over and determined to save every dollar you can—only you can answer that.

CHAPTER XVII
WHEN RICKI put his head Pat had no inkling of her intention. With his injured ankle propped on a cushion, he lay back on the sofa to await her return.

"It's you, Pat?" he called some time later, hearing the front door click.

"Yes, Ricki. Haven't you gone yet?" Mrs. Danforth answered from the hall.

"Mother?" Ricki lamented, like a small boy in trouble.

Pat Danforth appeared swiftly in the doorway. "What's the matter, dear?" she asked.

"Squeezed my ankle—couldn't go."

Her grin faded. "I'm sorry, Mr. Danforth," hastened in "young, luck old man," he sympathized. "Deviled pain, Sarge. Sorry, Ricki. I think the flight, too, weren't you?" he said dismally.

"How'd you do it?"

"I'm afraid I objected to his wife, call the doctor first."

"Pat's gone to the village to hunt up his formalized wife."

"Well, said Danforth senior, "you'll certainly be here for the night. Where's your bag? I'll take it up in the hall," replied Ricki.

But there was no bag there.

"I'm damn sorry, Sarge," wailed Mrs. Danforth, as Ricki, springing up and hopping on one foot, leapt across the room to the telephone.

"Give me Stanbury Airfield."

Hick had the operator peremptorily. "Dann Imhof," said the man through fast. "This is urgent. Hello! Hello! Stanbury Airfield! Come in with the code. Hello! Hello! Is Captain Imhof there?"

"Who's calling?" was the cautious answer.

"Mr. Hilary Danforth," said Ricki, warning his father with a look.

"Oh! Good evening, Mr. Danforth. Sir, if you will speak to your son, he took off with Captain Imhof 10 minutes ago."

Desperate Agricultural Plight Has Influence On Interprovincial Actions

Because of the desperate plight of agriculture, governments of the three prairie provinces were obliged to step into the picture when danger of foreclosures became imminent on a large scale. Hon. Lucien Maynard, K.C., attorney-general, declared in an address here Monday night. The address, 18th in a series of provincial government affairs, was entitled, "The Western Farm Problem".

"Today the threat to western agriculture is greater than ever, because as a result of adverse decisions on the debt legislation of the three prairie provinces, the farmers have been virtually left without any protection," said Mr. Maynard.

It was pointed out that the governments and farm organizations of the three prairie provinces met in Saskatoon in 1942 and unanimously agreed on the principles required for the basis of adjustment of farm debts, he continued.

Mr. Maynard also mentioned portions of the recently-announced Farmers' Creditors' Arrangement Act, and the Debtor's Assistance Act passed by the Alberta legislature.

The complete address follows:

"The western farmer holds one of the key positions in United Nations war strategy. On him falls the burden of providing even-tempered food supplies—wheat, grains, butter, cheese, milk, eggs, bacon, beef and hides to swell the total resources of the United Nations in their battle for victory.

Every bushel of wheat, every hog on feed, carcass, every cow and chicken on the farm today is a direct contribution to victory. Any legislation that would affect the status which Canada is committed to provide is a direct threat to the success of the war.

ACCEPTS ASSIGNMENT

The western farmer has accepted his assignment to produce food with a will. He has watched his sons go to war service, his brothers fight on the front, his wife, in 100 cases, left to carry on alone, for hired labor is not yet available to take the job of food production must go on.

Because this war means something to the western farmer, he is co-operating to make Canada a worthy member of the United Nations. Hence, any legislation which would greatly mean nothing now to the western farmer is unacceptable.

From eight to dark, seven days a week, he is milking cows, harnessing teams, working the fields, feeding hogs, raising chickens, and working his farm production by working incrediblly long hours and performing an amazing diversity of tasks.

The western farmer is being sabotaged in his efforts to carry out this patriotic duty. The people of Canada and the millions in the country have responded with fine spirit. They have rallied to his side, supported him in his demands for a better deal, and have freed some of the onerous burdens under which he is laboring. They did this because they realized he deserved support and that his efforts might discourage him from providing the vital foods of victory.

TRUELY CANADIAN

This is a truly Canadian way of looking at the situation. No solution of disarray must be allowed to enter into our social relationship while we fight for victory.

Unfortunately there is one note of discord sounding throughout Canada today, and that is the issue of misleading propaganda aimed at discrediting the farmers of national unity that the public informed as to the nature of these attacks.

Perhaps the most disconcerting feature of these attacks is that they emanate from a group of financial institutions which claim to represent small business and Canadian citizens who, personally, are in harmony with the western farmer. They are the very ones who, if these citizens are themselves大方 and as such are money-substituting members of the organizations who are endeavoring to sell them down the river.

The attacks mentioned are contained in certain brochures which have been issued to citizens, to the charge by the Dominion Mortgagors and Investment Association.

The contents of these brochures are presented in a manner calculated to turn public opinion against the western farmer by taking advantage of the natural desire of the public to protest against any further debt adjustment legislation. What the mortgage companies are doing is to demand payment from the farmer on the basis of his present contractual obligations, and as such are money-substituting members of the organizations who are endeavoring to sell them down the river.

Although the financial return of the western farmers may be greater now than ever before, the western farmer is still in a bind.

He is still in a bind.

Sports Centre Is Mooted For Post-War Era

Proposed to build a $1,000,000 recreation centre on Edmonton's South Side was discussed Monday by a committee of the South Side Businessmen's Association, held in Know United church hall on 102nd and 104th street.

R. W. McMillan, association president, outlined facilities planned for the structure, which would be erected in the block between 80 and 82nd, and 102nd and 104th streets. Hockey, badminton, skating, curling, gymnasium, bowling alleys, and a swimming pool, cafeteria, reading room and dressing places for athletes using the South Side Athletic Grounds were mentioned, and facilities suggested to be available in the centre.

South Side business believe such an athletic centre could be made self-sustaining, and would be an excellent addition to the recreation program, not only from the viewpoint of construction work involved, but as a place of employment for returned men after construction is complete, said Mr. McMillan.

It was decided to form an organization on the South Side including churches, community leagues and youth organizations, to send representatives to an organization committee which will begin preliminary discussion of erection of the centre. A subscription fund will be started also, the meeting was decided.

E. J. Martin, Independent MLA for Peace River, and Mr. W. A. Ross, Provincial Reconstruction committee subcommittee on public works, spoke on the recreation building project.

"Such a project as you are endeavoring that would permit expansion of sport and athletics might well be taken in a post-war program," said Mr. Martin. "The City of Red Deer and Lethbridge both have similar plans in view. Red Deer has a $1,000,000 plan, and a plan is carried out as a memorial at the end of the war."

UNKNOWN QUANTITIES

"Plans for the post-war period must of necessity be founded on some unknown quantities. The critics as I see it, is to have a definite determination that advantage will be taken of opportunity when it comes along."

"Our definite policy of the Post War Reconstruction Committee is to encourage in every way planning by local communities in the search of finding the best manner by which every citizen can be so used in the reconstruction of their homes and living ahead to the future. In the last analysis it is mobilized public opinion that secures the greatest advantage."

REASON FOR PRIDE

"I feel that your future deliberations on this project will continue to be guided by the fact that your business training has equipped you to give and that by following the example of your fellow-citizens of Edmonton your plans will produce an edifice of which everyone connected with its organization can be proud."

Representing the city council at the meeting were Ald. H. D. Ainslie and Ald. A. M. Morley, who offered their support of the proposal. Mr. Gray also spoke in support of the plan.

Mexican Money Tendered in City

Not until he had returned to his taxi office, William Osterman, 12024 80th Street, and driver of the police, did he discover that the check he gave a customer for a supposed ten-dollar bill, had been forged for a Mexican. The check, which was a piece of an express delivery, who admitted passing the bill, was placed under arrest and charged with mail fraud.

Osterman said he had been called to a 101 street hotel to take a passenger to 102 street and Jasper Avenue. He accepted the bill,
